Text of lengthy statement issued by Soviet Government on 9th August is presumably available to you.

2. Statement was forwarded to U.K. Ambassador under cover of a Note translation of which is as follows. Begins.

Ministry of Foreign Affairs of U.S.S.R. present compliments to British Embassy, and in connexion with statement of Governments of Britain, France and United States of August 2nd on questions concerning nationalization by Egypt of Suez Canal Company, and invitation, transmitted to Soviet Government by British Government to take part in conference which it was proposed to convene in London on August 16th 1956 have honour to enclose for transmission to British Government text of statement of Soviet Government on Suez Canal question.

Soviet Government consider that under all conditions following countries, apart from those mentioned in statement of Governments of Western Powers of August 2nd should also take part in discussion of questions connected with freedom of navigation on Suez Canal: successor-countries of Austria, Hungary and Germany, which signed Convention of 1888 - Austria, Hungary, German Democratic Republic, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, Arab countries geographically situated in direct proximity to Suez Canal and vitally interested in a correct solution of this question - Yemen, Jordan, Iraq, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabi, Syria, Sudan and Tunis, and also maritime Powers extensively using Canal - Albania, Burma, Bulgaria, Poland, Roumania and Finland. Soviet Government consider necessary participation in above mentioned conference of such a great Power as Chinese Peoples Republic. Soviet Government hope that British Government will not place obstacles in way of participation in this conference of States named, if they themselves consider that necessary. At same time Soviet Government wish to draw attention of British Government to fact that, according to Convention of 1888, a conference to discuss questions connected with functioning of Canal should have taken place in Cairo. Concerning date of conference it would be expedient in interests of better preparation to convene it at end of August.

Drawing attention to foregoing, Ministry request Embassy to inform British Government that statement of Soviet Government is simultaneously being sent to Governments of all countries. Ends.

The Italian Charge d'Affaires informed me today ef a conversation he had with the Egyptian Charge d'Affaires. latter is strongly pro-Nasser, but is on good personal terms with Lansa.

- The Egyptian Charge d'Affaires had said that he was well pleased with the Iraqi reaction to the nationalization of the Susz Canal and that he was receiving enthusiastic messages of support from all quarters. The press too had been very satisfactory, He hinted that he had been [group under] encouraging favourable comment.
- The Egyptian Charge d'Affaires had, however, shown rather less confidence when discussing Maypt's general position vis-k-vis the Western Powers. He had said, though it was not clear to my Italian colleague whether he was speaking personally or expressing an efficial view, that he saw no reason why there should not be a settlement on a basis of the Western Powers accepting Rgyptian control of the Canal and an International Commission being set up to verify that Egypt was keeping the Canal open to free navigation.
- The Egyptian Charge d'Affaires added that he, personally, was very anxious that Nord-bimself should attend the forthcoming meeting of the Arab League Political Counities, and that he intended to press for this by all the means at his disposal.
- Finally, he asked whether my Italian colleague would be prepared to pass on to this Rebessy any communication the Egyptian Charge d'Affaires might wish to make to us. M. Lanza thought that the principal object of this might be to bring pressure to bear on Muri indirectly to go to the Arab League meeting. He had returned a non-constituit reply. / 6 ...

My telegram No. 844 (not to all addressees).

The Prime Minister informed me today that meeting of the Arab League Committee had now been fixed for August 12. had decided to send Tawfiq Suweidi to represent Iraq, keeping Fadhil Jamali in reserve in case Egypt brought the Sues Canal dispute before the United Nations.

- He said that Iraq would take the following line at the 2. meeting:
 - (1) The Iragi representative would do his best to prevent the passing of a resolution approving the nationalization of the Suez Canal, since such a resolution would make it difficult for the Egyptians to back down and would block any possibility of a compromise solution. such a resolution came to the vote, Iraq would abstain.
 - (ii) Iraq would ask that members of Arab governments should refrain from making statements, and should restrain their Press from publishing articles, hostile to the West or to those favouring an international régime for the Canal. Such pronouncements could only inflame the atmosphere and make it more difficult to reach an agreed solution.

- (iii) Iraq would appose any proposal for breaking off diplomatic relations with Western Powers, cutting off their oil supplies from Arab countries, or proclaiming a commercial boycott. Such action would be economic suicide for Arab countries and would create chaos internally, and would widen the breach between Arab countries and the West.
- 3. He said he had spoken similarly to the United States Ambassador and asked himsif the United States Ambassador in Jedda, without in the first instance revealing that this was the Iraqi policy, would sound out the Saudis and see whether they would be prepared to adopt a similar line. If the Saudi reaction was favourable, he asked that United States Ambassador should indicate that Iraq would be pursuing a similar policy.
- explaining that the Iraqi policy would be as cutlined in paragraph 2 above, and ask them to support it. He also wants us to speak in the same sense to Libyans as to the Sudanese, and has asked my United States colleague that the United States Ambassador in Tripoli should also act on the same lines. Muri has written to President Chamoun asking that the Lebanese should support the Iraqi line. He is taking no action vis i vis Syria, Jordan or Yemen, since he considers that if the Saudis are prepared to go along with him, these States can be more effectively influenced through them.

Addressed to Foreign Office telegrem No. 433 of August 8. Repeated for information to: Cairo and Saving to:

Suez Canal. JERU 211/384 My telegram No. 428:

Following is gist of article by Observer in People's Daily of August 8.

Britain, France and the United States are hastily sending warships and aircraft to the Mediterranean in order to restore the glory of nineteenth century colonialism. The nationalization of the Caual has so flustered them that they imagine they can use the old "gumboat" policy to force the Egyptian people to accept a plan for the "international control" of the Canal.

- In the communique issued after the recent London talks, the three Powers insisted that the nationalization of the Canal presents a threat and with this excuse demand that a conference of twenty four States whom they have chosen, should meet in Lendon on August 16 to discuse the operation of the Canal under international control. This plan for international control utterly disregards the severeign rights of Egypt. is quite elear that Egypt has full rights over the Canal, including the right to operate it.
- Moreover, Rgypt has already announced that the shareholders will be compensated and has guaranteed free navigation. attempt to put the canal under international control and rob Egypt of its right of operation is a clear and serious infringement of Egyptian sovereighty. The plan for intermational control shows that the Western Powers not only want to restore the direct control which they exercised through the old company, but also intend to occupy the Canal for an indefinite period.

Peking telegram No. 433 to Foreign Office

The Western Powers are now saying that they want to separate the question of the nationalization of the Canal from the question of guaranteeing free navigation. They want people to believe that their plans for international control is not a riposte to Egyptian mationalization; but a virtuous step taken in the interests of international navigation. But M. Pincau let the eat out of the bag in a broadcast in which he said that if the proposed international conference accepted the Western plan, and if Wasser accepted its decision, he would have to abandon nationalization entirely and that if he refused to accept the decision of the conference the Western Powers would force him to accept it. M. Pineau has perhaps overestimated French strength. The fact that England and France have been unable to suppress the struggle for independence waged in Malaya, Kenya and Algeria shows that they will not be able to subdue the Egyptian people by force of arms. In their righteous struggle the Egyptian people will not be a lone colony, the countless anti-colonial peoples of Asia and Africa will stand behind them.

- the Suan Canal should be a channel for cultural and economic exchange between East and West. But the colonialists need it to rob and conquer. Now that it is again in the hands of the Egyptian people, Egypt has guaranteed that it will still better serve the interests of humanity. If the Western Powers have any doubts about the Egyptian guarantee, then they must seek to resolve these doubts on a basis of respect for Egyptian sovereignty through discussion and negetiation. The problem will not be solved by armed threats and intervention.
- 5. Present circumstances require Britain, France and the United States to maintain a calm and realistic attitude. The stormy emotions with which they view the death throcs of colonialism will not help them. The Western Powers must sheath their swords and sincerely discuss matters with Egypt, otherwise they will both damage their own interests and also hear serious responsibility for wrecking peace in the Middle East and the whole world.

Following from Ambassador,

The Secretary General of the Ministry of Foreige Affairs read to me yesterday evening a translation of a communication made yesterday by the Egyptian Government to the Turkish Chargé d'Affaires in Cairo. This stated that Article 16 of the Angle Egyptian Agreement of 1954 recognised the Suez Canal Company, as an Egyptian Company, that the Egyptian Government had no designs on the Canal, the British and French Governments would bear the responsibility for any situation which might arise from the use of force, and expressed the hope that the Turkish Governmentwould support the Egyptian Government in following their declared intention to continue to comply with the provisions of the Treaty of 1888 and that at the London conference they would not follow a line of conduct which would endanger peace in the Middle East and the whole world.

- 2. The Turkish Chargé d'Affaires was told that the same communication was being made to representatives of all countries invited to the London conference.
- 3. I assume that you will be receiving the full text from the Turkish Charge d'Affaires and I shall not telegraph it unless instructed.

With regard to the possibilities of going to the International Court of Justice at The Hague the better view seems to be that the Montreux Convention is now spent because its final objects were realised in 1949. There is a separate minute about this by Mr. Vallat which can be produced if necessary, but the probabilities are that if Egypt disputed the jurisdiction of the Court on the foregoing ground she would probably be successful.

Apart from this there is no way of getting Egypt before the Court without her In any case I think little useful purpose would be served by going to the Court. Despite the fact that a strong legal case can be made out for the view that the Suez Canal Company is not a purely Egyptian company and despite the obvious fact that the Egyptian action, whatever its justification might otherwise be, is a clear breach of the Canal's Concession which was to last until 1968, I think the probable finding of the Court would be that the Egyptian action was not actually contrary to international law provided adequate compensation was afforded. They might possibly find that the compensation offered was not adequate inasmuch as it does not seem to cover anything for the loss of the profits which the Company would otherwise have made between now and 1968, But, even if the Court so found, they would merely declare that Egypt ought to pay additional They would not, Think, compensation. reverse the act of nationalisation itself.

[I see] that the main object of going to the Court in the eyes of the Company would be to get the Court to pronounce what are known as "interim measures" of conservation against Egypt The Court was induced to do this in the somewhat similar case of the Persian action against the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, but Thave some doubt whether they would do it in this case. any event, the interim measures pronounced against the Persian Government in that case The Persians were a complete dead letter. never attempted to observe them and there was no means of enforcing them. the use of force, that would certainly be also the case here. As regards the point that Egypt by disobeying would put herself in the wrong, even this is not entirely certain for there is unfortunately a considerable degree of obscurity as to how far a country against whom interim measures are pronounced in a litigation before the Court isunder a positive obligation to comply with them. There are legal arguments in support of the view that a finding of the Court on this subject ought to be binding on the parties in the same way as its eventual decision on the merits of the case is binding, but the language of the relevant clauses is not clear.

4. Taking it all in all, therefore, I contains there would be little to be gained by going to the Court except as a largely political or publicity move. It had some utility in the Anglo-Persian Case as a sort of "holding operation", and it served to frighten a number of countries and interests off dealings in Persian oil so long as the case was sub judice before the Court, but these considerations hardly apply in the present case.

CONFIDENTIAL

August 3, 1956.

The Director General of the Suez Canal Company He began with some general came to see me yesterday. remarks to the effect that the French Directors of the Company felt strongly that, while attention is being concentrated on permanent arrangements such as would anyhow have been necessary after 1968, the legitimate interests of the Company and its very numerous shareholders are being (I gathered from Wylie and Cadogan today that there is much soreness in the Company about this. He then said that will no doubt tell you more about it.) he wished to inform me of two points about which he was going to speak to the Secretary General of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs later in the evening.

First, the Company wished to emphasise the importance they attached to early action by the French Government (as protecting the great majority of the shareholders) and by Her Majesty's Government (as the largest shareholder) to challenge the act of nationalisation before the Hague Court. He had been disturbed by indications that Her Majesty's Government might be advised that the nationalisationof the Company in Egypt was valid. Company's Egyptian status was really a complete fiction, based on the reference in the concession agreement to a "siège social" at Alexandria which had never existed. The Company's legal advisers held that there was a good case for maintaining that the true international status of the Company justified action at the Hague based on Article 13 of the Final Act of the Montreux Conference of May 8 1937. He promised to send me today copies of various studies on the subject, with a statement summarising the Company's If this were not accepted views on the legal position. by the Foreign Office legal advisers, he would be very grateful to know the grounds for the latters' opinion.

He explained that the object of action at the Hague would be not so much to obtain a favourable decision in the end (which he admitted was unlikely) but to secure immediate provisional safeguarding action in the form of "mesures He quoted the precedent of the similar conservatoires". Such action was action taken in the case of the A.I.O.C. not of course immediately necessary in France, the United Kingdom and the United States, since the Company's assets were already safeguarded by the measures taken by Governments. He was thinking primarily of "mesures conservatoires" which the International Court might direct the Egyptian Government to take. Of course that Government would not obey such orders, but in disregarding them it would put itself in the wrong, and this would be a point gained.

A.D.M. Ross, Esq., Foreign Office.

4. Secondly, the French Directors thought it their duty to take all possible steps to protect the interests of the 80,000 French shareholders (with an average holding of less than six shares each) and of the Company's pensioners. The associations representing these two bodies intended to take legal action in France, the United Kingdom and the United States, and perhaps in other countries particularly Switzerland, to have the Egyptian Government's assets placed under sequester. This would be a safeguard additional to the measures taken by the French, British and U.S. Governments and Georges-Picot suggested that it might indeed by useful to the three Governments to be able to quote any orders of the Courts in their countries if their own action was questioned. Georges-Picot intended very shortly to consult a leading French international lawyer about the steps necessary to set this legal action in train in the various countries concerned.

This conversation of course took place before the appearance of the Three Power Declaration and also before the texts of the speeches made in the House of Commons yesterday by the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State. I would suppose that they should go a long way to answer Georges-Picot's point about the international character of the Company. I have not yet received the legal documentation which he promised me. It would naturally be helpful to us to have the Legal Advisers' comments on the Company's statement of their view of the position, when available: and if these comments can be passed to the Company, the latter would certainly appreciate it very much.

any reference to the Hague Court. I have only had time to have a very brief word with Crouy-Chanel about this point. He told me that he did not think that there was any question of the French Government favouring it at present. On Georges-Picot's second point, he was inclined to think that there was no harm in the legal action proposed. It would take several weeks to get going: it might provide a useful argument on which Governments could fall back: and from the propaganda point of view there was much to be said for bringing out the fact that thousands of ordinary people were hit by Nasser's action.

7. I am sending copies of this letter to Washington and Cairo.

I am sorry to have been so unconscionably slow in enswering your letter of August 3rd about your talk with the Director-General of the Suez Canal Company. Since you wrote we have of course had a good deal of contact with the Company one way or another, ending up with Charles-Roux'meetings first with the Secretary of State and then with the Prime Minister yesterday. As a result I believe that any misunderstandings which may have arisen in the early stages of the crisis have been largely dispelled.

- 2. As regards action before the International Court, I cannot do better than enclose a minute by the Legal Adviser. You could show this unofficially to the Company. I am sure that after hearing the broadcast speeches of Mr. Menzies on the 13th August and the Secretary of State' yesterday they will not imagine for one moment that we regard Nesser's nationalisation as valid. The point brought out in the Legal Adviser's minute is simply that recourse to The Hague would not pay.
- 3. As to legal action by some of the shareholders or the Company's pensioners, I cannot say anything definite at the moment. The idea strikes me as attractive.

Jean thickard,

On point that emerged from recent discussions with the Sees Consl Company's leavess which may be of interest to you, although I do not know quite how much there is in it, was the following. The Company are well aware that the Tressury may fear that if the Company was able to deal with its funds in this country as it pleases (that is to say, if the Westminster Bank and, gether, one other best were not imposing this embargo), the Company might, for greater safety, withdraw the whole of the very large balances which they have in this country, amounting to ever $20,000,000, and take them to France. Whether it would in fact be possible to do this under our finemainl legislation, even if the Mestmineter Bunk did not impose the embarge, I do not know, but certainly the implication in which Mr. Poster said was that it would be possible to do so but for the attitude of the Westminster Bank. If this is correct, I think the resulting position is that the Company suspect that the Treesury is being unforthousing in tying to get the Westminster Bank to alter its stiltude, because the Treasury fears that the result might be a flight of the funds is question.

2. The Company's lawyers believe that by appropriate action they could force the hand of the Westminster Bank, and that there would be a very good chance of their obtaining a favourable decision from the courts here is quite a short period of time, perhaps as little as two or three weeks. On the other hand, they are not particularly anxious to do this if seme other way of releasing their believes from the embarge can be found. The upshot was that while nothing definite was said, the impression was left that the Company would be willing to give a firm undertaking not to effect any big with-drawels from this country if the Treasury could find some means of persuading the sestminater Bank to become the Company's chaques in the ordinary way (at present the Westminster Bank will not go further than to hemony cheques limited to becomeny current transactions, e.g. the payment of salaries, the payment of rest of presides, etc.).

PRESSE TO CANBERRA, WELLINGTON, PRETORIA, COLOMBO AND
W. No. 318
JOHANNESBURG No. 46 PRESSE

Following text closing statement by Foreign Secretary in Commons today. Begins.

I think that this debate has shown a large measure of approval and agreement in this House. The first point is that we, as a country, have done everything possible in our power to make friendly relations with Egypt feasible. We made the agreement with regard to the Sudan; we made the agreement with regard to the Suez base; we made the agreement with regard to sterling balances, which was fair and indeed liberal. We have done everything we can to promote more friendly relations. That has not succeeded, but I think that course of conduct has the advantage that now public opinion, I believe, in this country and overseas is united behind the Government in the attitude which has been indicated today.

The second point is that this Canal Company, as the right hon. Member for Lewisham, South has just said, is not an ordinary domestic concern which can be properly nationalised, however much we may or may not agree with the principle of nationalisation, but it is a company of an international character. It has had an international character throughout the whole of its existence and if one looks at the Convention of 1888, in the Preamble it is there recited that the countries concerned wished "to establish, by a Conventional Act, a definite system destined to guarantee at all times, and for all Powers, the free use of the Suez Maritime Canal."

It was designed to establish an international system, and therefore I agree with the right hon. Gentleman that the principle of nationalisation does not apply.

The next point is that the manner in which Colonel Nasser has acted has shown that in practice the Canal could not safely be left at his disposal. His method of announcing his decision, the threats to the employees who would not stay at work, the indication, with which the right hon. Gentleman dealt, about the uses to which the resources of the Canal were to be put in the future - all these things show, in my view, that/that apart from the juridical side of it, on the practical side it is not safe for this Canal to be left at his disposal. If this Canal is left in his control I think he can, and on past form will, do great harm to us or to any other country.

The only acceptable solution there in this present difficulty, I think, is some form of international system - an international system in which we can have confidence - and therefore we seek an international solution of this problem. I promise the House that. We are working at the present time for an international conference with suitable membership to meet with expedition to test international opinion on this matter; we are in broad agreement with our French and American allies upon that matter, and I hope the country will hear more

There has been reference to the military preparations which are being made. I think they have been received with general approval. It is a very serious situation in which many British subjects are in Egypt, many British ships approaching the Canal, and it is a situation in which anything Therefore, I think the Government would be failing in their duty if they did not take precautionary measures. Nevertheless, whilst taking those precautionary measures we still seek and will do our best to achieve an international solution of the matter.

I think the Government can feel that as a result of this debate they have the support of almost the whole House in what they are doing. I assure hon. Members that we intend to be absolutely firm in this matter. We are not prepared to accept the present situation. We are not going to yield on this question of principle - the principle of ensuring right of free passage through that Canal under some international We feel that this great international waterway must not be left at the mercy of the caprices or the spleen or the hatreds of one Power or of one man.

Lord Home, in his minute of this morning to the Foreign Secretary, promised to let him have later his estimate of India's and Pakistan's reactions. He has now spoken to the two High Commissioners and, while neither as yet has instructions, they both gave the impression that the reaction of their Governments would be much the same as that of the other Commonwealth Governments as described in Lord Home's minute.

I am sending a copy of this letter and of the minute to the Foreign Secretary to the Private Secretaries to the Prime Minister and other members of the Egypt Committee and to Hunt in the Cabinet Office.

I have seen the High Commissioners for all the Commonwealth countries; the three Asians in one group and the four "old Dominions" in another. In general they had not received instructions from their Governments but the indications they gave were as follows:

- 2. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Ceylon would favour the calling of a conference of users.
- 3. These five countries would also agree that the objective of such a conference should be to reach agreement upon machinery for international control of the Canal.
- 4. All five would also agree that the aim should then be to secure Nasser's acceptance.
- 5. All five however are in doubt as to the methods which could be adopted to induce Nasser to agree.
- 6. I think it possible that India and Pakistan would also be prepared to go as far as this with the other five Commonwealth countries and I shall report on this later.
- 7. It seems likely that all Commonwealth countries would welcome the chance of attending a conference.

Monsieur le Ministre,

I have been instructed by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to make the following communication:

Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have the honour to transmit to the Royal Danish Government the attached text of a statement in regard to the Suez Canal, issued in London on the 2nd of August, 1956 by the Governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States. In accordance with paragraph 5 of that statement Her Majesty's Government hereby invite the Danish Government to take part in a Conference to be held in London on the 16th of August, 1956 in order to consider what steps could most appropriately be taken to establish operating arrangements under an international system designed to assure the continuity of operation of the Canal as guaranteed by the Convention of October 29, 1888, consistently with legitimate Egyptian interests. Similar invitations are being extended to the Governments of Egypt, France, Italy, Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as parties to the aforesaid convention and to the Governments of Australia, Ceylon, Ethiopia, Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, India. Indonesia, Iran, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, ortugal, Sweden, and United States of America as governments of nations largely concerned with the use of the Canal.

> I have the honour to be, with the highest consideration, Monsieur le Ministre, Your Excellency's obedient Servant,

> > E.A. Berthoud

His Excellency
The Minister for Foreign Affairs
Monsieur H.C. Hansen,
Royal Danish Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

August 2, 1956 by the Governments of France. the United Kingdom and the United States of America

The Governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States join in the following statement:

1. They have taken note of the recent action of the Government of Egypt whereby it attempts to nationalise and take over the assets and the responsibilities of the Universal Suez Canal Company.

This Company was organised in Egypt in 1856 under a franchise to build the Suez Canal and operate it until 1968.

The Universal Suez Canal Co. has always had an international character in terms of its shareholders, directors and operating personnel, and in terms of its responsibility to assure the efficient functioning as an international waterway of the Suez Canal.

In 1888 all the Great Powers then principally concerned with the international character of the Canal and its free, open and secure use without discrimination joined in the Treaty and Convention of Constantinople.

This provided for the benefit of all the world that the international character of the Canal would be perpetuated for all time, irrespective of the expiration of the concession of the Universal Suez Canal Cp.

Egypt as recently as October, 1954, recognised that the Suez Canal is "a waterway economically, commercially and strategically of international importance" and renewed its determination to uphold the Convention of 1888.

2. They do not question the right of Egypt to enjoy and exercise all the powers of a fully sovereign and independent nation, including the generally recognised right, under appropriate conditions, to nationalise assets, not impressed with an international interest, which are subject to its political authority. But the present action involves far more than a simple act of nationalisation

It involves the arbitrary and unilateral seizure by one nation of an international agency which has the responsibility to maintain and to operate the Suez Canal so that all the signatories to, and beneficiaries of, the Treaty of 1888 can effectively enjoy the use of an international waterway on which the economy, commerce and security of much of the world depends.

This seizure is the more serious in its implications because it avowedly was made for the purpose of enabling the Government of Egypt to make the canal serve the purely national purposes of the Egyptian Government, rather than the international purpose established by the Convention of 1888.

Furthermore, they deplore the fact that as an incident to its seizure, the Egyptian Government has had recourse to what amounts to a denial of fundamental human rights by compelling employees of the Suez Canal Co. to continue to work under threat of imprisonment.

3. They consider that the action taken by the Government of Egypt, having regard to all the attendant circumstances, threatens the freedom and security of the canal as guaranteed by the Convention of 1888.

This makes it necessary that steps be taken to assure that the parties to the convention and all other nations entitled to enjoy its benefits shall, in fact, be assured of such benefits.

- 4. They consider that steps should be taken to establish operating arrangements under an international system designed to assure the continuity of operation of the canal as guaranteed by the Convention of October 29, 1888, consistently with legitimate Egyptian interests.
- 5. To this end they propose that a conference should promptly be held of parties to the Convention and other nations largely concerned with the use of the canal.

The invitations to such a conference to be held in London on August 16, 1956, will be extended by the Government of the United Kingdom to the Governments named in the annex to this statement. The Governments of France and the United States are ready to take part in the conference.

Parties to the Convention of 1888:

Egypt, France, Italy, Netherlands, Spain, Turkey, United Kingdom, U.S.S.R.

Other nations largely concerned in the use of the canal either through ownership of tonnage or pattern of trade:

Australia, Ceylon, Denmark, Ethiopia, Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, India, Indonesia, Iran, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Portugal, Sweden, United States of America.

NOEXED

Dear Department,

The Spanish newspapers of August 3 announce in black type that the Egyptian Ambassador visited the Minister of Foreign Affairs on August 2 and informed him of the official point of view of his Government on the nationalisation of the Suez Canal Co., and gave him a text of the declaration of President Camel Abdul Nasser, in which guarantees were me given that the freedom of mavigation in the Suez Canal will not be compremised, and in which the intention of the Egyptian Government to respect and maintain all international engagements, especially the Convention of 1888 and the guarantee given in the Anglo-Egyptian Agreement of 1954 made clear.

- 2. The following is the text of the declaration:
 - On July 26, 1956, the Canal Co. was nationalised. This exercise of its right by the Egyptian Government has, however, created some opposition on the part of some governments, particularly those of France and the U.K. This opposition is without any foundation seeing that the Suez Canal Co. has always been an Egyptian company liable, like other Egyptian companies, to be nationalised.
 - "This nationalisation in no way affects the international engagements of Egypt. We are, as always, determined to honour all our international engagements and both the Convention of 1888 and the guarantee given in the Angle-Egyptian Agreement of 1954 are and will be fully maintained. The freedom of navigation in the Suez Canal is not affected or compremised in any manner or degree. Still more: no one is more interested than Egypt in the freedom of transit and in the prosperity of the traffic through the Canal.
 - We are sure that the traffic through the Canal will in future years justify all our hopes and those of all the world. Egypt is convinced of the justice of her position and will not turn aside from the road which she has laid down, but will continue forward in the service of her own interests and of those of the world community of nations."

Yours ever.

With reference to my telegram No. 164 of the 31st of July, I have the honour to transmit herewith the published account of remarks made by the Minister of Fereign Trade at a press conference on the 30th of July, regarding Belgian trade with Rgypt and the repercussions on it by the Suez dispute. It will be observed that Mensieur Larack's remarks were highly non-committal. Mensieur Lareck was, hewever, speaking in his capacity as Minister of Fereign Trade in the context of Belgian trade figures for the second half of the year, and I do not consider that it is necessary to lend undue political weight to his words or to imagine that these were uttered in his capacity as deputy for the Minister of Foreign Affairs during Monsieur Spaak's absence in the Belgian Conge.

Eisenhower Remarks and Dulles' Report

Foliating fath test of Secre-lary, at Mass Dullest report to Frestains Discussioner and the nation by radio and television last night on his participation in the London conferences on the System Street and remarks by President Essenhouser as recorded by The Naw York Times:

At that manners, Secretary Dulles was in South America. But as soon as the neturned, and be soon as he returned and be-cause of his great experience, his wisdom in this kind of at-Landon to tenfer with our British and Franch friends concerning a proper course of action.
This noon he zettened. Because of the internation he has and the background he can give you I instantly asked the calevision industry to give him a few mimites this evering to explain to you what he can this evering, and give you a report on what he has been talking about in London.

By Secretary Dulles

Mr. President

I greatly appreciate what you've said and this apportu-nity to speak here from the White House shout this der-gerous, critical Sizes shuation, and to tell the American peo-ple with some background, the kind of thing. I have been reporting to you by cable from London and then which we talked over personally here at the White House this after-

Now this trouble about the Suez Caral started about a week ago when Passident [Ga-mai Abdal] Namer announced that he was going to take over the operation of the Suez Ca-nal. Atting that time he tried to seize the moneys and the property and the personnel of this Universal Suez Canal Company, which is the oper-ating company of that canal.

Now, this act by President Nasser goes far beyord a mere attempt by a govern-ment to nationalize companies and properties within its terri-tory which are not interna-tional in character because the Sier Canal and the operating company are interna-tional in character. Now let me speak first a little background about the Suez Canal. Rhat's an interna-tional waterway which was boild by the Universal Sucz Canal Company with interna-tional Canal Company with interna-tional Candidation a century age. And though the year 1888 all of the great powers that were principally con-cerned with thek canal made a treaty providing that the Suez Canal shalf be open at all times, in war he well as in peace, to the shipping of all na-tions on free and equal terms.

Erypt's Adherence Recalled

Egypt is a party to that treaty and has repeatedly recognized it. And, indeed, only a couple of years ago President Namer, himself, reaffirmed the allegiance of Egypt to that treaty. In all the world there is no international waterway as fully internationalized as is the Sucz Canal.

Now let me talk about the Universal Suez Canai Company That's the company that originally built the canal and which, since 1885, when the canal was built, has been the long and during these of the way ships balings page each other so there is danger of collision. And the organizing of this thing is a very complicated bit of hysiness.

Facts on Usage Given

Now here are a few very interesting statistics that I've put down, by 1855, 14,666 ahre, passed through the condition of the passed through the condition of the passed through the flags of night than forty different nations. They carried the products of all the world.

orld. There are 187 pilots. They

There are 187 pilots They are from hitright that the color lifty of the color lifty are from hitright. Beyonian British, there's an one of the pilots are marettans.

K. 14. Dy far, the world's greatest highway it has rearly lifted the world's greatest highway it has rearly lifted the treet has traffic that goes through the Panisma Canal, where you and Twee Mr. President, just not week Nosair successful first greatest Nassar successful first greatest Nassar successful first in a long speech that he made.

And in that speech be first the first the made in a money is in greatest first the made the greatest before the first successful first the first seed to the first the reasest before far in a were greated index life 1588 treaty. The basic reason he gave was that it he took over this canal it would enhance the prestige of Egypt.

it would enhance the prestige of Egypt. He said that Egypt was determined to score one triumply after another, in order to enhance what he colled the grandeur of Egypt. And he coupled his action with statements about his ambifion to extend his influence from the Atlantic to the Perceian Suif.

And also he said that by

to the Fernian Guif.

And also be said lifat by seizing the Suez Canal he would strike a blow at whatti he called Westeln impertailsm. And he thought also that he could exploit the canal so as to produce bigger revenues for Egypt; and so to retaliate for the failure of the Esting States States and Britain to give Egypt, the money to enable it to get start on this 11,000,000,000 plus Aswen [High] Dam

Action Called Betallation

Now President Nessar's speech made it absolutely clear that his salaure of the canal company was an angry act of retallation against fancted grisvances. No che reading that speech can doubt for a moment that the canal under the Egyptian operation, would be used not to carry out 62 1888 reserv better bet. to promote the political and consinto ambitions of figure and what as a say, Francisco Nesser calls the grandeur of figure out the 1888 treaty better

Now of course the government of a free and independ-ent country which despt is and we want to have if always that—should seek to promote by all proper means the weldent Nasser has done quite 4

dent Nasser has done quite a lot of good in that respect. But it is insidminable that a waterway internationalized by treaty which is required for the livelihood of a scare, or more of nations should be exploited by one country for purple selflish purposes. And that the operating agency which has done so well in himdling the Shez Capal in accordance with the 1988 treaty should be struck flown by a national act of vengentiness.

To permit this to go unchallenged would be in encourage a breakdawn of the international fabric upon which the security and the wall-build for all peoples depend.

suce of twenty-four nations to be held on Aug. 16. These eventy four nations consist of three groups of sight.

Riest of all, the eight nations which are party to the 1853 treaty—this includes the Seviet Union and Egypt.

Then, in the second group, there are eight other countains not included in the fire-soins category value that is dyn the greatest volume of traffic that goes through the canit.

And then as a third group there are eight other com-tries, not included in the foregoing categories, whose parshows a special high degree of dependence upon the carol. These nations that are independence upon the canal. These nations that are inlifed are truly representative and leave a broad geographical and cultural diversification.

We believe that out of this centerence will come a plan fer the international operation of the canal which will give accurance that the objectives as the 1838 treaty will in fact. Its dealized and that the canall sift continue to be operated by those who feel that is it their duty to serve the international community—and not to serve the special interests of any one nation.

This plan should give both assured, and and also fully protect the legitimate interests of any one last on the property persented on this operating authorisy, and be assured, also, of a fair reasonable income for the use of the property because the canal, although it the use of the property, because the cause, although it it internationalized, is on Egyptian territory.

Pairness for Egypt Urged There is every desire that Egypt shall be treated with the utmost farmers. And, also, the owners and the employes of the now dispossessed Uni-gardal Canal Company should also, of course, be fairly treated.

If these principles are accepted by the conference, then we believe that they will also be accepted by Egypt.

As you know, Mr. Bresident, it of one thing for a neighb to dety just one or two other nations. But it's quite a dif-terent thing to dety the conarray tamp to dery the con-sidered and sober judgment of many nations—nations which had treaty rights in the canal, and which in large part depend for their economic livelihood upon the operation of the canal in accordance with the 1888 treaty.

Now, I've been asked, "what will we do if the conference fails?" My answer to that is that we are note thinking in terms of the emierence's fall-lag. But I can say this: we have given no commitments at any time as to what the Unit-at States would do in that unhappy contingency.

I repeat we assume. Mr.

Preseident with you like the conference will not fall but vall succeed. And I believe that by the conference we will invoke moral forces which are bound to prevail

Mr. President, you and I have often talked about our Declaration of Independence, with the principles that are set forth in that great document:
And one of those principles is that to which the founders pledged themselves that they would pay a detent respect for the opinions of mankind.

I believe Mr. President, that most people pay decent respect for the outnions of mahkind, when they're soberly, care-fully and deliberately formu-lated. And because I believe that, I am confident that out of this conference there'll come all peoples depend.

And the caleshon, Mr. President, as we've streed is not that the Suez Caral will go on

By Secretary Duller

Mr. President Mr. Finaldent appreciate what you've said and this opportunity to speak here from the White House shout this dangerous, critical Spea situation, and to tell the American people with some background, the tind of things I have been reporting to you by cable from London and then which we talked over personally here at the White House this afternoon.

Now this trouble about the Suez Caral started about a wask age when Passident [Gamel, Abdel] Nasser announced that he was going to take overthe operation of the Suez Canal And at that time he tried to selve the moneys and the property and the personnel of this Universal Suez Canal Company, which is the operating company of that canal. Now, this act by President Nasser goes far beyond a mere attempt by a government to nationalize companies ment to nationalize companies and properties within its territory which are not international in character, because the sues cases conjung are international in character.

Now let me speak first a little background about the Suez Capal. That's an international waterway which was built by the Universal Sues Canal Company with international funds, about a century ago. And then, in the year 1888 all of the Typest powers that were principally conthat were principally con-cerned with that canel made a treaty providing that the Suez-Canel shalf be open at all times, in were so well as in peace, to the Suppling of all na-tions on the and equal terms.

Egypt's Adherence Retailed

Egypt is a party to that treaty and has repeatedly recognized it. And indeed only a couple of wears ago President Namer, himself reaffirmed the allegiance of Egypt to that treaty. In all the world there is no international waterway as fully internationalized as is tire Suez Canal.

the Siez Genal.

Now let me talk about the Universal Siez Canal Company. That's the canal company that originally built the canal and which, since 1888, when the canal was built, has been the canal would in fact be operated as a free and open international waterway as pladged by the 1888 treaty.

That company itself is a company of an international character. Registered in Egypt, it operates under a tranchise given it by the Government of Egypt. Shareholders are of many nationalities, the board many nationalities, the board of directors is international and the capal work—the building of the castil and the keep-ing of it in good sepair—is supervised by an international body of engineers. The job of that company is to see that the capal is open at all hours to the passage of all vessels of all the nations. all vessels of all the nations. This bicans it has pickers because it has provide the condition of the special properties of the special properties for the trainer of the ships through the canal and the the special properties and depart the property shipping which is a rather complicated affair because it's very conveid and its is canal of over 100 inters after another, in order to en-hance what he called the gran-deur of Egypt, and he coupled his action with statements about his ambilion to extend his influence from the Atlantic to the Fernian Gulf. And also he said that by seizing the Suez Canal he would strike a blow at whatti he called Western imperialism. And he thought also that he could exploit the dans so as io produce bigger revenues for Egypt, and so to retalists rot the failure of the United States and Britain to give Egypt the and Britain to give Egypt the money to enable it to get start on this $1,000,000,000 plus Aswen [Figh] Date.

Action Called Retaliation

Now President Nesser's speech made it absolutely clear that his selzure of the carial company was an angry act of retaliation against faacted grievances. No one reading that speech can doubt for a rooment that the ranal under the Egyptian operation. for a moment that the canan-inder the Egyptian operation, wond he used not to carry out the 1888 treaty bests with to promote the militical and scanomic ambilions of Egypt, and what as I say President Naiser calls the grandent of Egypt.

Now, of course, the government of a tree and independ-ent country which have is and we want to have If always that—should seek to promote by all proper means the welby all proper means the welfare of its proper has done quite a lot of good in that respect. But it is insignification that a waterway interesting that a waterway interesting that a waterway interesting that a waterway interesting for the Evelined of a scare of more of patient, should be exploited by one country for purely selfish pusposes. And that, the operating exemp which has done so well is handling the Siez Caust in accordance with the 1888 treaty should be struck down by a national act of rengeliness.

To permit this to go with challenged would be in encourage & breakdown of the international fabric upon which the security and the well-being of national fabric door which the security and the well-being of all peoples depend.

And the question, Mr. President, as we've agreed is not whether something, should be done about this lightful set but what should be done about it.

Now there were some nopple who chursted immediate forceable action by the governments which felt them erments which felt them-selves most directly affected. This, however, would have been contrary to the principles of the United Nations Charter and would indeubtedly have led to widespreas violence en-dangering the peace of the world

Parley, Not Force, Ravered

At London, we decided upon a different approach. We de-cided to call together in con-ference the nations most direcity involved with a view to seeing whether agreement could not he resched upon an adequate and dependable international administration of the canal-sea tenne which would respect, all of the legitimate rights of Egypt.

So today, the Battish Government is calling a conferent rectly involved with a view to

Pairness for Egypt Urged

There is every desire that Egypt shall be treated with the utmost fairness, And, also, the owners and the employes of the new dispossessed Uni-gersal Canal Company should also of course, be fairly treat-

As you know, Mr. President, it is one thing for a nation to dety just one or two other nations. But it's quits a different thing to defy the considered and soler judgment of many nations—nations which had treaty rights in the canal, and which in large part depend and which in large part depend for their economic livelihood upon the operation of the canal in accordance with the

Now I've been asked, "what will be do it the conference fails?" My answer to that is obtat we are motrahinking in terms of the conference's failing. But I can say this: we have given no commitments at any time as to what the Unitative States would be in that unhappy confinency. happy contingency.

CONFIDENTIAL

The following points were raised in the Conservative Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday evening. The Secretary of State dealt with all the Questions, but you may like to have a note of them in preparation for to-morrow's Debate.

- (1) Has Article 8 of the 1954 Agreement been violated?
- (2) Could any future "Canal" be extended to include a strip of land, like the Panama Canal?
- (3) Are we ready for World War III? Should the United Kingdom not get war economy established before issuing an ultimatum?
- (4) What instructions have been given to British subjects in Egypt?
- (5) Great need for international approach.
 United Kingdom will lose all Arab support if we take this lying down, but we must attack the dictator attitude of Colonel Nasser, not the Arabs.
- (6) What would Her Majesty's Government do if a 20 year Soviet-Egyptian Pact were signed now?
- (7) We should avoid United Nations.
- As there has been no interference so far with Canal, Her Majesty's Government should provoke one but it must be confined to Egypt. We should not withdraw troops from Germany.
- (9) The stronger United Kingdom action is now, the wider the support will be.
- (10) This is a unilateral repudiation of an international undertaking, with forced labour imposed on former Canal Company employees.

PROGRAMMIN STR

- (11) Can we mobilise Commonwealth opinion, especially India?
- (12) Publicity must make clear issues to the whole country.
- (13) Public opinion in United States universally disapproves of Mr Dulles, and increasingly in favour of United Kingdom, as our position becomes understood.

JEJUBUISHE

The Prime Minister has seen my letter of July 30 to Mr. Millard reporting the text of a message issued by the Suez Canal Company to its chief Representative in Egypt.

- He remarked that the action which the Suez Canal Company had taken was different from that which H.M.G. had decided to take in this matter (Item 7 of E.C. 56 - 4th Meeting). H.M.G. had decided to advise the employees of the Company to give notice only when no more U.K. shipping was passing through the Canal. He thought that we should remain in step with the Company and that we should now issue instructions to H.M. Ambassador at Cairo similar to those sent by the Company. If the Secretary of State agreed, this should be done immediately. If not, he might either discuss the question with the Prime Minister or discuss it with his colleagues on the Egyptian Committee after the vote in the House this evening.
- When Mr. Millard telephoned to convey this information, I said that the Secretary of State would probably have difficulty in attending another meeting tonight, as he was engaged with M. Pineau. It seemed to me that the decision of H.M.G. and that of the Suez Canal Company differed only on the point of timing. The Company had acted now. We did not yet know whether their action was effective. The French Government, so far as we knew, had not yet endorsed the Company's instructions. I wondered whether the Secretary of State would think it necessary for H.M.G. to hurry to do so.

4. There is also the point, which I did not make to Mr. Millard, that it is satisfactory from our point of view that the Suez Canal Company should advise employees to leave. It is one thing for them to be blamed for disrupting traffic through the Canal; it is quite another thing for H.M.G. to be blamed for doing so.

My telegram No.11,78: Suez Canal.

Gomhouria this morning prints attack on British and French Consuls at Port Said for alleged incitement to Canal pilots to down tools. Same story is repeated at length in Middle East News despatch carried by Egyptian Gazette.

2. Following is extract from Gomhouris:

"The British Consul at Port Said and also the French Consul are undertaking grave activities in the Canal They incite the pilots in the Canal to cease work, they also incite those who are undertaking important work to refrain from doing their work, they push certain navigation companies to unsound actions. The Egyptian Authorities are watching this suspicious activity; they will not keep silent over this action which does not accord with the nature of the post of the They will not allow the interruption of two Consuls. freedom of navigation in the Canal in any way. East News has learned that British Consul in Port Said, and also the French Consul, are holding periodical meetings with the pilots in the Canal, and others who are entrusted with important functions in the navigation operations therein, and that the object of these meetings is to incite abstention from work. The news agency also learned that the Egyptian authorities are watching this activity with a watchful eye, and that they will not allow interruption of free navigation in the Canal in any AUG 100 way".

M. le président. La parole est à M. le président du conseil.

M. Guy Moliet, président du conseil. Mesdames, messieurs, il me faut, d'abord, exprimer publiquement à M. le ministre des affaires étrangères, mon ami M. Christian Pineau, mes remerciements chaleureux et ceux du Gouvernement unanime pour d'action qu'il a mence à Londres et les résultats qu'il a oble-

Sa fermeté, son énergie, sa ténacité ont permis de faire préyatoir l'essentiel des préoccupations françaises. (Applaudissements à gauche et sur plusieurs bancs au centre.)

Mon intention n'est pas de le paraphraser, mais de dégager brièvement devant vous la signification et la portée de la riposte alliée aux décisions du colonel Nasser.

Rien dans ce que nous entreprenons et dans ce que nous préparens n'est en aucune manière dirigé contre le monde arabe ou même contre le peuple égyptien. La France a maintes fois prouvé son amitié à l'égard des pays du Moyen-Orient, Elle comprend leurs préoccupations et leurs besoins. Elle a le souci que soient garanties leur indépendance et leur intégrité territoriale, le souci que se poursuive leur développement économique en vue du relèvement de leur niveau de vie. Et même, malgré l'attitude prise à notre encontre au cours des derniers mois, malgré les déchaînements de la propagande, elle garde confiance dans l'avenir des relations entre le peuple français et les peuples arabes.

Notré riposte n'a pour but, quoi que certains aient dit à cette tribune, que la défense d'intérêts nationaux et de principes de valeur universelle et non pas celle d'intérêts capitalistes qui scraient lésés par une nationalisation.

Je fais miennes les paroles qu'ont prononcées hier à ce sujet M. le président et M. le rapporteur de la commission des affaires

Si le Gouvernement a le devoir d'assurer dans tous les cas la protection des biens de nos nationaux — et il n'y faillira pas - ce problème est de caractère contentieux et non pas poli-Ce contre quoi nous nous élevons, ce que nous n'admettrons tique. pas, c'est qu'un dictateur commette une violation grossière de la morale internationale, c'est qu'il prenne des mesures unilatérales au mépris d'accords conclus, au mépris des règles du droit des gens.

l Je dois relever d'abord, après M. le ministre des affaires étrangères, les mesures inadmissibles prises par le colonel Nasser contre le personnel de la compagnie, personnel dont une large proportion est française. Contraindre ces agents à travailler pour le compte du nouvel organisme égyptien, sous la menace des peines de prison les plus lourdes, c'est peut-être admis dans certaines régions, mais c'est à nos yeux violer les droits fondamentaux de l'homme. (Applaudissements à gauche, au centre et à droite.)

C'est instituer une forme nouvelle de travail forcé, c'est heurter la conscience de tous les hommes libres.

Je dois relever, ensuite, les menaces que le colonel Nasser fait peser sur la liberté de passage et la sécurité du canal. Pour nombre de pays, c'est l'équilibre même de leur économie qui est aujourd'hui en cause. Aussi la convention de 1888 prévoyait-elle - explicitement - que, « dans l'intérêt du monde entier » le caractère international du canal devrait être assuré à titre perpétuel.

Assurer la liberté et la sécurité du transit, ce n'est pas seulement ne faire aucune discrimination à l'encontre d'un usager quelconque, c'est aussi maintenir le canal en bon état d'entretien, c'est aussi garantir que les droits de péage resteront à des taux normaux et exempts d'arbitraire.

Alors, parlons franchement; ni politiquement ni techniquement le régime insensé du colonel Nasser ne donne les assurances nécessaires. Nous ne faisons pas confiance à un dictateur qui a prouvé en quel mépris il tenait ses engagements internationaux. Nous n'acceptons pas de faire dépendre les relations économiques entre l'Europe et l'Asie de ses visées

La France considère que, seule, une autorité internationale chargée de la gestion du canal peut garantir la liberté et la sécurité du transit.

Cette position est partagée par la Grande-Bretagne et par les Etals-Unis. Elle sera sanctionnée par la conférence internationale qui vient d'être convoquée. La France n'admettra pas que l'Egypte s'oppose à sa mise en œuvre.

Ce que je dois relever, enfin, dans les décisions du colonel Nasser, dans les commentaires dont il les à entourées, c'est la portée politique qu'il leur a donnée .

Sa préoccupation première, ce n'est pas d'assurer le respect de droits légitimes de l'Egypte, ce qui aurait pu rencontrer une compréhension générale. Ce qu'il a voulu, c'est affirmer définitivement qu'il était, lui, le leader du monde arabe, qu'il était le « héros », comme il l'á écrit lui-même, qu'attend le petiple arabe.

Ce qu'il a voulu, c'est asseoir sans conteste son autorité sur les autres peuples arabes, alors que ceux-ci seront les premiers à patir de ses visées impérialistes et de son ambition folle de vouloir les dresser demain contre l'Occident, au nom d'un expansionnisme démesuré,

Il y a quelques jours, je rappelais devant la presse parlementaire le programme que Nasser s'était trace dans La Philosophie de la révolution, une brochure trop peu connue, dont l'illustration scule suffit à montrer ce qu'elle est.

M. Marcel Naegelen, Hitler

M. le président du conseil. Bien avant le 26 juillet, j'avais déjà eu l'occasion de dénoncer publiquement, par de longues citations, l'ambition effrénée de Nasser. Des sceptiques ou des sages m'ont reproché alors d'user d'arguments de polémiste. Ils m'ont fait remarquer que c'était là brochure déjà vieille.

C'était faire bon marché des faits. Nasser lui-même vient de leur réporture, « Nous possédons, déclarait-il mercredi dernier à Aboukir, une force énorme, terrible, qui s'étend de l'Atlantique au Golfe persique. Je l'ai dit moi-même dans La Philosophie de la révolution, nous sommes une force immense. Aujourd'hui, le panarabisme est une réalité. Nous libèrerons le monde arabe de l'Atlantique jusqu'au Golfe persique, »

Nasser, donc, n'a rien renié de son livre, ni de ses intres. Est-ce que nous saurons tirer les conséquences de cet avertissement? (Applaudissements à gauche, au centre, à droite et sur quelques bancs à l'extrême droite.)

Je ne veux pas cacher que j'attends, non sans quelque curiosité, de voir avec quels arguments certains essayeront de défendre la cause de Nasser devant la classe ouvrière. (Applaudissements sur les mêmes bancs. - Protestations à l'extrême gauche.)

M. Jean Pronteau. Nous defendrons la cause de la paix I ens et de la moralité internationale. Nasser a peut-être espéré que la complicité tacite et l'appui de l'Union soviétique lui vaudraient l'impunité et lui permettraient de poursuivre ses rèves d'hégémonie du monde arabe et même, au delà du monde arabe, du mende musulman.

La riposte calme, mals ferme, des trois grandes pulssances, lui prouve aujourd'hui qu'il s'est cruellement trompé.

Avec résolution, sans vains éclats, les Trois ont fait connaître à Nasser les règles auxquelles il devra se plier.

Nous avons décidé la convocation d'une conférence sur le statut du canal.

Nous serions-nous engagés « dans la poursuite trop longue de négociations trop vagues, avec trop de participants » ?

Il n'en est rien, vous le sayez.

La conférence se réunit des le 10 août. Elle doit travailler rapidement. Son objectif est clairement arrêté et les Trois sont décidés à empêcher tout atermoiement.

Elle rassemble les pays directement intéressés à l'usage du canal. Sa convocation prouvé que les Trois agissent dans l'intérêt commun du monde, en conformité du droit et de l'équité.

Non, la conférence de Londres ne sera pas l'étouffement, l'enlisement de la volonté française. Elle sera l'affirmation d'une volonté commune de l'immense majorité des nations en cause

C'est sur ces bases seules que nous nous sommes engagés. Les règles qui seront confirmées le 16 août seront appliquées. Nous les imposerons à Nasser si, dans un dernier défi, il prétend les ignorer.

Je peux donner à l'Assemblée l'assurance que les mesures nécessaires sont d'ores et déjà prises en France, comme elles le sont chez nos amis britanniques.

J'ai moi-même donné ici le conseil d'être plus soucieux d'action réelle et efficace que d'énergie verhale. Ce conseil, le Gouvernement l'a suivi le premier. L'affirmation simple de sa volonié, appuyée sur celle d'un Parlement, d'un peuple résolus, a frappé l'opinion mondiale, a pesé sur la décision de grands pays amis.

Le Gouvernement continuera dans cette voie sans forfanterle, mais sans esprit de recul. Il sail l'étendue des responsabilités qui pèsent en ce moment sur les alliés. Il n'a pas hésité un instant devant elles. Il les assumera jusqu'an bout. (Applaudissements à gauche, au centre, à droite et sur quelques bancs à l'extrême droite.)
